This was agreed to by Judge Moore, and by mutual consent the date for trial was set down for the first Monday in June.

Ex-Judge Morris did not even intimate that the Company would offer a demurrer, and the fact that he agreed to set a day for the trial before applying to have the indictment quashed on some legal technicality, is regarded as an indication that the indictment is sound. The proceedings this morning did not occupy over five minutes. Both District-Attorney Ridgway and his principal assistant, Mr. Clark, were ready to argue any demurrer that might be put in.

Mr. Mann expressed his opinion that Miss Lipman was treated shamefully and Mr. Glies resented it. Blows were struck, and for a few minutes the two men were badly mixed up. They were finally separated, but will carry the marks of the encounter for some time.

Miss Clayton says she will be able to pay all claims against her if given time.

Vogel Brothers' Big Store. The great question at present is, how to keep cool. Man's attire must be suitable to the season. A light-weight suit. able to the season. A light-weight suit, either blue or black serge, is most appropriate and comfortable. These suits should be worn either in single-breasted sack or three-button cutaway frock, and can be purchased for $15 to $18 a suit.

Vogel Brothers, Eighth avenue, corner of Forty-second street, have made these suits of the very best materials, guaranteeing the colors to be absolutely fast, thereby making them both durable and comfortable. Every requisite in men's or boys' attire, including negliges shirts, Summer underwear, russet shoes and straw hats, may be had at moderate prices at the well-known establishment of Vogel Brothers, Eighth avenue and Forty-second street.

warnings, he and another Italian assaulted him, and that Louis kicked him in the stomach and on the right hip.

Justice McMabon ordered him to change the charge against Louis to assault. When Louis was arraigned John C. Richards, an elderly gentleman, who said he was in business at 39 and 41 Chambers street, asked to testify.

"Your Honor," said Mr. Richards, "this arrest was an outrage, and the officer should be punished instead of this prisoner. I was standing on the steps of the Elevated stairs and saw the whole occurrence. The prisoner here, and another Italian, were standing together exchanging some flowers, when this officer, without any cause, suddenly reached over and, seizing each man by the collar, struck their heads together six or seven times as rapidly as he could.

"He followed this up by striking Louis ten or twelve times beneath the chin and on his head, and then kicked him. Louis was forced to fight for his life, and did kick back, much to the delight of, us speciators who were crying 'Shame' and many of us thought the officer was the one who ought to have been arrested."

Louis, who does not speak English, through a court interpreter, told the same story. Several flower venders further corroborated the story.

Mr. Richards said he might later make a complaint against the officer before the Park Commissioners.

Rudders, floating over the oyster beds in Raritan bay. They will receive the reward of $25 offered by Joshua Ford for the recovery of the body.

The old man disappeared about ten days ago. John Stumps, the old man's son and Joshua Ford, before beginning a search for the missing man, consuited several clairvoyants in New York city as to the fate of the old man. A woman clairvoyant states that the old man had been murdered and that his body was in the water near a dock and was held down by a heavy iron weight. A man clairvoyant said the old man had met death accidentally, but agreed with the woman clairvoyant that the body was near a wharf and held under water by some heavy weight.

An old resident of Perth Amboy dreamed that he saw the old man's hat and cane floating over the oyster beds in Raritan bay. This was the nearest that anyone came to the location of the body.

The body was much decomposed but there was no evidence that the old man had met with foul play.

District-Attorney Fellows said that he had no objection to make, and Justice Barrett granted the motion.

Mr. Curtis said later that Col. Fellows had assured him that he would discharge O'Toole upon his own recognizance upon the other indictment against him and let him go free, as both indictments are practically of the same nature.

Col. Fellows, when asked about this, said that O'Toole will be so discharged upon his own recognizance, but that the indictments will stand against him.

It is believed that later the indictments against O'Toole will be dismissed, but no positive statement regarding this against O Toole will be dismissed, but no positive statement regarding this could be obtained from the District-At-torney's office.

The Judge said that without giving a long decision or going into the many intricate phases of the question he would grant the application of A. E. Judge McAdam follows the lead of Justice Patterson, of the Supreme Court, as did Judge Dugro in the Superior Court in a similar case. It was held that the new Constitution taking the limit off in damage cases for loss of life applied to all actions pending at the time the Constitution was adopted.

Mrs. Schneider is the woman who, it is claimed, was arrested for keeping a disorderly house, as the result of a conspiracy between her husband and some of his friends on the police force. Judge Grady discharged her.

The Schneiders were married in March, 1892 and a year later Schneider brought suit for absolute divorce. Then came a reconciliation. Six months later the process at all the process and the police and her husband.

As to who will be the Deputy Chief, or who from among the inspectors would most suit him, was also a subject concerning which Chief Byrnes would not be drawn out.

Perhaps there isn't to be a deputy chief, and if there chances to be one he may hold the office long enough to be reired. The new law has forgotten to fix a salary for the deputy chief, though a pension for him is fixed at $2,580. "I'm here to enforce the law,

"The fact that there is a $2,500 pension set aside for Deputy Chief may give rise to the inference that his sainry is $3,500, but it seems to me there will be annoying complications growing out of this evident neglect."

One of the first duties of the Police Roard will be the organization of the new Police Civil Service Hoard, to consist of one inspector and four captains, whom the Commissioners will appoint. The acts of this Police Civil Service Examining Board must be approved by the State Civil Board before any appointments can be made. Conlin, Cortright and Pickett Men- A Fourth-of-July Picnic Brings the Bodies Into Court.

> Sharp Trick of Mr. Freel to Secure the Big Park.

> Split in the Organization and Two Societies Now.

The Clan-na-Gael of Brooklyn is excited to-day over the question of its legal City Court, Brooklyn, this morning Chief Judge Clement, in a suit to make Charles Deckelman, proprietor of the Ridgewood Amusement Park, live up to the terms of a contract.

The evidence this morning shows that the Clan-na-Gael of Brooklyn, has been flourishing for about twenty years. It has been the custom of the organization for ten years to hold a picnic on the Fourth of July in Deckelmann's Park. A union was formed in 1886 by six or eight branches of the organization to hold the annual celebration. Early in the Clan-na-Gael, and a split was the On June 22, 1894, the seceders were incorporated under the title of the Clan-na-Gael of the City of Brooklyn, Joseph J. Freel is leader of this body. Prior to holding the picnic last year ganization was to succeed. It was finally there was much trouble about which organization was to succeed. It was finally decided in a victory for the old Society. The custom has been, when one plends was over, to make arrangements with Mr. Deckelmann for the year following. Mr. Freel always figured in making these arrangements. Less year he did not do so.

On the morning of July 5 last, John McCarthy and other members of the Plenic Committee, it is claimed, made a verbal agreement with Deckelmann for the use of the park on July 4 1856. Meantime Mr. Freel and his friends kept the fact of their morporation quiet. About Thangsgiving Day, it is claimed, Mr. Preel visited Mr. Beckelmann, armed with the articles of incorporation, and convinced him that his Society was the only legal body of the Clan-in-dical in isrooklyn, and to avoid trouble he should make a contract with his Clan-in-dical in isrooklyn, and to avoid trouble he should make a contract with his Clan-in-dical for the coming July 4. This was done. When President James F. Galingher, of the parent society, learned of this coup, he and his friends tried to induce Mr. Deckelmann to live up to the verbal agreement alleged to have been made with McCarthy. They were unsuccessful.

He then brought the present action to

He then brought the present action to compel Deckelmann to keen his agreenent, and to enjoin him from permiting the new Society to use the park on July 4. It was testified to-day that there are about 300 members of the old Clan-na-Gael Society in Brooklyn. The papers set forth, among other thinks, that the object of the Clan-na-Gael is to aid in the securing of Irish nationality. Judge Clement took the papers.

The members of both bodies of the Brooklyn Clan-na-Gael, are anxiously awaiting the decision in a belief that it will decide the question of the legitimacy of the bodies.
